

PROFILY AUTORŮ / AUTHORS' PROFILES

Karel Šebesta

is affiliated with the Institute of Czech Language and Theory of Communication, Faculty of Arts, Charles University, where he has been active since 1986. He specialises in applied linguistics, second language acquisition research, language pedagogy and stylistics. He has published articles, monographs, chapters in collective monographs and textbooks in the mentioned areas of interest.

Lucie Saicová Římalová

works at Charles University, Faculty of Arts, Institute of Czech Language and Theory of Communication. She specializes in contemporary Czech language and her research interests include cognitive analysis of language, pragmatics, stylistics and first language acquisition in Czech speaking children.

Zdeněk Starý

teaches at Akcent College courses on language structure, cognitive linguistics, the history of modern linguistics, and the usage-based approach to language. His research interests focus on theoretical linguistics, methodology of linguistics and on border areas of linguistic thought.

Melissa Shih-hui Lin

received her Ph.D. in General Linguistics from Charles University in Prague in 2002. From 2003 to 2011, she taught at the Department of Indigenous languages and Communication at Donghua University in Hualien Taiwan. Currently she is an Associate Professor of Slavic Languages and Literature Department at Chengchi University in Taipei. Her research interests include sociolinguistics, Czech and Taiwan indigenous languages.

Svatava Škodová

works at the Institute of Czech Studies at the Faculty of Arts, Charles University in Prague and partly also at the Department of Czech Language and Literature at the Technical University in Liberec. She obtained the title of Doctor of Philology at the Charles University in the field of Czech language (Pseudo-coordination in Czech syntax). In her professional and pedagogical activities, she focuses on the grammar of Czech, esp. from the point of view of Czech as the first and target language. She participated in the creation of numerous materials and textbooks of Czech for foreigners, she is the author of a comprehensive series of textbooks for foreign students at primary schools. She participated in the project of the learner corpus for Czech (CzeSL). She also participated in making Czech Radio's programs accessible in the form of automatic transcripts available in parallel with soundtracks as part of a cultural heritage preservation project. She is interested in everything connected with Czech of non-native speakers.

Milan Hrdlička

lectures at the Institute of Czech Studies, Faculty of Arts, Charles University in Prague and at the Department of Czech Language and Literature, Faculty of Education, University of West Bohemia in Pilsen. He has focused on describing Czech as a foreign language, contemporary Czech (mainly morphology) and literary translation theory. His published work includes numerous studies, monographs and Czech textbooks for foreigners. He lectured at many foreign universities and was a visiting professor at Université libre de Bruxelles in Belgium for 4 years and at Hankuk University of Foreign Studies in South Korea for 2 years.