

PROFILY AUTORŮ / AUTHORS' PROFILES

Eva Dvořáková

works as a teacher of legal English at the Faculty of Law, Charles University in Prague. She currently pursues her PhD studies at the Faculty of Arts, Charles University. Her dissertation focuses primarily on archaisms in legal language.

Marie Kopřivová

absolvovala odborné studium českého jazyka a historie na FF MU v Brně a doktorské studium korpusové lingvistiky na FF UK v Praze. V Ústavu Českého národního korpusu vznikla pod jejím vedením řada korpusů mluvené češtiny a účastnila se i budování korpusů psaných. Na FF UK vede kurzy zaměřené na korpusovou lingvistiku a českou frazeologii.

Dagmar Siegllová

works as an assistant professor and a head of the language department at the ŠKODA AUTO University in Mladá Boleslav, Czech Republic. She teaches business English, intercultural competence, and intercultural marketing. She completed her graduate degree in intercultural communication at the Graduate School of Education at the University of Pennsylvania, US and her doctoral degree in applied linguistics at the Charles University in Prague, Czech Republic. She provides training to teachers, professionals, and administration in teaching methodologies, autonomous language learning, and diversity management.